YESTERDAY - The bright sublight and pleas art, period ik wather of of yesterday brought out the yeurs, the middle aged and the old. Vashington street, in the alternoon, presented its summer evening appearance. The churches had good empregations, and the people tak d about the splenoid winter, and what a er at blessing it was to the poor, forgetting that is probably as much sufficient during a mild winter as there is during a severe one, and that a "mild winter" is no excuse for tight-fittedness. Mesers. Dolan, English, Poverille. Loyd, and a colored man, the representatives the Bree Methodist Church, spoke on the whatf to a larger crowd that u-u-v. It was understood that Mr. Lloyd could not endorse the extreme views on sanctification and perfection held by Mesers Dolan, E glish, and the others, and was told that he had better go back whire he came from—the M. E. Chu ce—but he must have changed his views again, for he was loud enough yesterday, if that is a test, for two or three perfect men.

In Christ Church, Rev. Mr. Suter, in the morning presented on the Collect of the Day, the purpose of which was to a rengthen faith in God. At night the sermon was on the Ordinal of the Prayer Bink, showing the teaching of the Episcopal Church as to orders. It holds to a three-fold ministry, as proved by Scripture and history. While thus explicit as to its own faith, it says nothing in regard to other church es. From the writings, however, of the men who passed the Ordinal Articles, &x., we learn that they considered Enscopacy not necessary to the being but to the better being of a Church; 'eilver is good but gold is better." From the teaching of the Reformers and the wording of the standard of the church we find not only that exclusive claims are discarded, but all sa ecricial powers.

In St. Paul's Courch in the morning Row. N. P. Dame preached from the text First Kings, chapter xx., 40th verse: "And as thy ervant was busy here and there he was gone. The preacher after calling attention to the agreement made between the prophet and King Ahab as to the utter destruction of Benhavau and the hosts of Syria, and reciting the failure on Ahab's part in sparing the life of the King of Syris and calling him brother, he passed on to notice the parable made use of by one of the prophets to demonstrate the folly of letting go one of Israel's most deadly toes, and instanced a like occurrence to David's corner, when the prophet Nathen, at the emplosion of his parable, said. "Thou art the man." In ap the line of his subject to the present day and hour, the escales demons rated as like laisey existing when Christian parants and children permitted the business, agrasements and things of this world to interless with their solemn coverant duties toward God, each other, and their follow men. In the Union Presbyturian Church in the morning R.v. Dr Builcek presched an excellost serious from the 8th compter of Romans, 14 h to 19 h verses. The Eristle to the Romass, he supposed, was preached from more than any other part of the Bible. It was a e undete s accrete of religious truth, and the annot the Apesie was to set before the R man believers, and through them to all Christions, the grand summary of the dec-trine and practice of Christianicy. He then proceeded to discuss the decrines taucht:—the apostrey of man; the remedy provided is the blood shedding of Jesus Christ. which becomes official to every man upon fait; the cors quences of being thus justified, its blesseduess and responsitivity. M.n by nature are incorpable of right to logs toward God or of producing the fruits of holiness, but when they receive Christ as their Saviour and become partakers of the Holy Ghost, their r lations are changed and they are no longer slaves but children. Sanctification is a progressive growth, produced by the operation of the Haly Spirit upon the heart, and a cordial recention of the crush, and the Christian, therefore, who is desirous of iter asing in the knowledge and love of God, will be a faithful attendant on all the appointed means of grace He will be much in his close; he will seek opproducties of fellowship with Gad, as a friend let recurse with his friend, and he will have no taste for the vain amusements of the world. Think you, said the preacher, that you can enjoy the Sabbath or the services of the said usy more by being present at doubtful places of smusements; if so I fear that you have no ress in to believe that you are a child of God. The sermen at the morning services in the Second Presty erian church was from the 6th chapter of Enhe-isus. First, The Christian's Warfare: "Pur on the whole armour of God, that ye may be able to stand against the wiles of the devil. For we wrestle not against flesh and blood, but against principalnies, against powers, against the rulers of the darkness of this world, against the spiritual wickedness in high (heavenly) places." The conflict here speken of is not that which every believer has within himself, por with the evils which wicked men throw in his way, but one spart from fl so and blood-and with a being who's sest is in the beavenly piacet, even Satan himself. To meet this for and word off his deadly dar's, every chief of God must have on the whole armour of God—not a part of it, but the whole. Rov. S. L. M. Cons r. of Bultimore, preached at the M. E. Church in the morning from Jer. xxxvii., 15-"If I give thee counsel, will thou so hearken unto me?" Mr Pearce preached at night from Acts x. 6-"Lord, what will then have me to do?" and said that the experiese of Saul of Tursus should forever settle the qu stion of the possibility and fact of the marvelous change which we call e nversion. The words imply that amozing transfermation of the soul. R v. Mr. Graham, of the M. P. Church, presched in the morning from the text, "God is love," and at night, "I thank God that I am not as other men" are. Both sermons were able and instructive, and replete with sound tru hs.

At the Baptist Church Rev. Mr. Pepick based his morning's discourse upon "The Choice of Moses," as described in Hebrows xi, 24, 25 and 26. Saved by a device of his parents. which, in itself, was a substantial evidence of practical faith, Moses carried ent in his life the same principle. He made deliberate choice of a life of bardship and suffering the untried vicisenudes of which were to afford the stronges: contrast to the glory of the exalted position which he forsook. By faith he I ft those sur roundings which wend seem to have embodied the leadings of Providence in the prespective opportunity for dispensing good to his peop'e from the height of power. He was peither too young to know what he was doing, nor too old to cherish ambition. No satisty had closed his ctioyment of pleasure. He broved the risk of being charged with ingratitude, in describe her whose fester-care had, after saving his in-fant life mode him what he was.
